Committed Leaders

We are so blessed to have a solid leadership team at Native New Life! Don and Edna Shugak, Daniel Lupie and Bobby Nelson are an extremely important part of the leadership and decision making of Native New Life. We thank God for them regularly. Please pray for them as they help lead this ministry.

Media Interns!

For several years David has desired to train people in how to effectively use media for ministry. He enjoys teaching a "Media in Ministry" class at Alaska Bible College, and will soon begin training a couple young Native men in video production, editing and distribution. Please pray that they will learn a lot in their training and have fun as David spends several hours over the next few months working with them and getting to know them. They are very excited to learn and we are praying that in addition to the relationships that will be built, that they will develop a passion for using media as a tool to help them share the Gospel.

Technology as a tool

David continues to stay extremely busy utilizing and troubleshooting existing technology, and also looking for ways to use technology to better reach people in rural Alaska. The current setup we are using for Native New Life is working extremely well and allows us to send our weekly services to many extremely rural Alaskan villages via the internet. In addition to watching our services, we are also now able to have people in remote villages participate in our services. It is not uncommon for people in remote villages to give a testimony, pray, or even give the message from their living room while we share it with others online and those physically present in our meetings.

Family News

As usual, Laura is keeping extremely busy. She continues leading the children's worship team at church, she directed a children's drama camp this summer, and she is acting in two productions at our local community theatre. She also enjoys tutoring several students per week in mathematics.

The kids are growing up fast! Ryan (21) graduated and is now a Civil Engineer working for the Alaska Department of Transportation. Kayla (20) is in her junior year of college and is working toward a Geological Engineering degree. She is also extremely involved in CrossFit and enjoys competing in statewide competitions. Micah (18) is in his senior year of high school and is also taking college credits toward an accounting degree. He plays guitar on three different worship teams and loves snowboarding. Tyler (15) enjoys guitar and plays bass guitar on three worship teams. When he is not shooting shotguns, he enjoys working on projects in the garage and is getting into knife making.

David continues to stay extremely busy with his responsibilities at Native New Life. In addition to doing most of the administrative and technical needs of the ministry, he also teaches when needed, ensures the live video streams are working, edits the services for multiple radio stations, and sends DVD's of the services to villages around Alaska. It is always encouraging to us when people from remote villages share how God is using this ministry in their lives and the lives of their friends and family members. One couple said they used to hit the bars when they came to town, but now they come to our services instead.
